

Wixom Wastewater Treatment Plant Receives MIOSHA Rising Star Safety Award!

The Wixom Wastewater Treatment Plant, operated by United Water, has officially been awarded the Rising Star Safety Award by the Michigan Occupational Safety & Health Administration (MIOSHA).

This award confirms the Plant's acceptance into the Michigan Voluntary Protection Program (MVPP), a recognition and partnership program designed to identify worksites that have outstanding and comprehensive safety and health management systems which go beyond what is required by MIOSHA standards, and are considered best in class.

The Wixom Wastewater Treatment Plant joins approximately two dozen other companies in the MVPP program, and is the first public utility in the state of Michigan to be awarded this prestigious status.

Richard Bacon, Project Manager for United Water said, "We are very pleased that the Plant has been recognized by MIOSHA as a leader in health and safety, and as a role model for the industry."
